Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life; whoever comes to me shall not hunger, and whoever believes in me shall never thirst."

In John 6, a large crowd had gathered to hear Jesus preach, and there was no food for all of them to eat. In yet another miracle, which is traditionally known as the fourth sign that proves that Jesus is God, He provided food for them by multiplying the loaves and fish given to Him (John 6:11). However, there was something more to the miracle that Jesus performed. Following are three lessons we can glean from Jesus' feeding of the five thousand: His faithfulness in the past, His provision in the present, and His promise for eternity.

1 God's Faithfulness in the Past

"Our fathers ate the manna in the wilderness; as it is written, 'He gave them bread from heaven to eat.'" JOHN 6:31

The feeding of the 5,000 was a reminder of God's faithfulness in the past, especially seen in the provision of manna. God had provided for His people when He delivered them from Egypt, and He supplied them with food for forty years in the desert (Exodus 16:15). Jesus' miracle of feeding the 5,000 proves His faithfulness. How has God's provision for you proved His faithfulness?

2 God's Provision in the Present

³²Jesus then said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven, but my Father gives you the true bread from heaven. ³³For the bread of God is he who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world." JOHN 6:32,33

By feeding the 5,000, Jesus did what no one else could. He took what little was given to Him and caused it to overflow for everyone, so that they could all enjoy what He gave them. He could do this because He is God, and He has the power to step in to a most real and dire situation. How did people respond to this miracle? (John 6:14)

3 God's Promise for Eternity

Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life; whoever comes to me shall not hunger, and whoever believes in me shall never thirst." JOHN 6:35

More than just being able to provide for our needs, Jesus Himself is our provision. He is the only one who can truly enrich and satisfy us. Physical things are of value, and we need them, but we must look beyond what the world can offer, and look to Christ. Each of us can have everlasting satisfaction and provision in a relationship with Him. What does Jesus promise us today? (John 10:10)
